Agenda

- Understanding the difference between clean and hygiene
- How ATP testing gives you the data to accurately measure the real hygiene levels in your premises
 - Understand what is present and the risk levels you're currently facing
 - Why the least hygienic places tend to be laptops, door pushes and desk stations rather than toilets and bathrooms
 - How you can accurately measure the improvement as your hygiene levels increase
 - Quantify hygiene level improvements so you can demonstrate progress to staff and stakeholders
 - Use data to drive conversations with third party cleaning suppliers
- Moving from clean to hygiene with zero environmental impact
 - How room fogging and ozone cleaning enable hospital-level hygiene to be established in your premises without use of any harsh chemicals
 - Using room fogging to clean whole rooms as well as soft furnishings, clothes and other surfaces that are traditionally hard to clean

Moving from clean to hygiene with zero environmental impact

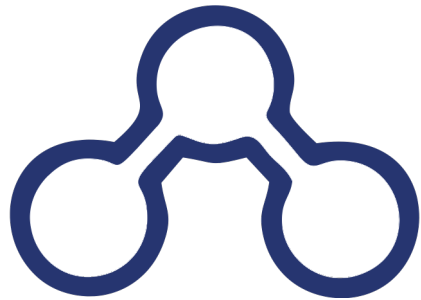

“To restore stability to our planet, we must restore its biodiversity. The very thing that we’ve removed. It’s the only way out of this crisis we have created. We must rewild the world.”

David Attenborough 2020
